

Coach Bill Fuller (1974-1979, 1983-1993)

Coach Fuller Was a former FSU pitcher (1970-73) & longtime Lincoln High baseball coach and teacher.

He arrived in Tallahassee from New York, where one of his summer jobs was helping to hang steel during the construction of the World Trade Center.

The left-handed pitcher had a solid Seminole career, going 26-11 with the 2.58 ERA. He threw seven complete games and struck out 241 in 293 1/3 innings.

He worked with future pro stars such as Rodriguez, Chipper Jones, David Wright, the Upton brothers and Seminole J.D. Drew. Fuller was designated “Hammer” status as one of the camp’s elite instructors.

At Lincoln, Fuller coached some of the program’s best players, including Reggie Jefferson, who played nine years in the major leagues (1991-99).
